About the American Humane Certified™ Program

The American Humane Certified™ certification program is the United States' first animal welfare program dedicated to the humane treatment of farm animals.

It is the fastest-growing independent animal welfare label program in the U.S. with certified producers representing some 1 billion farm animals through American Humane Association's science-based program.

Contracted third-party auditors are rigorously trained in American Humane Certified™ species-specific standards.

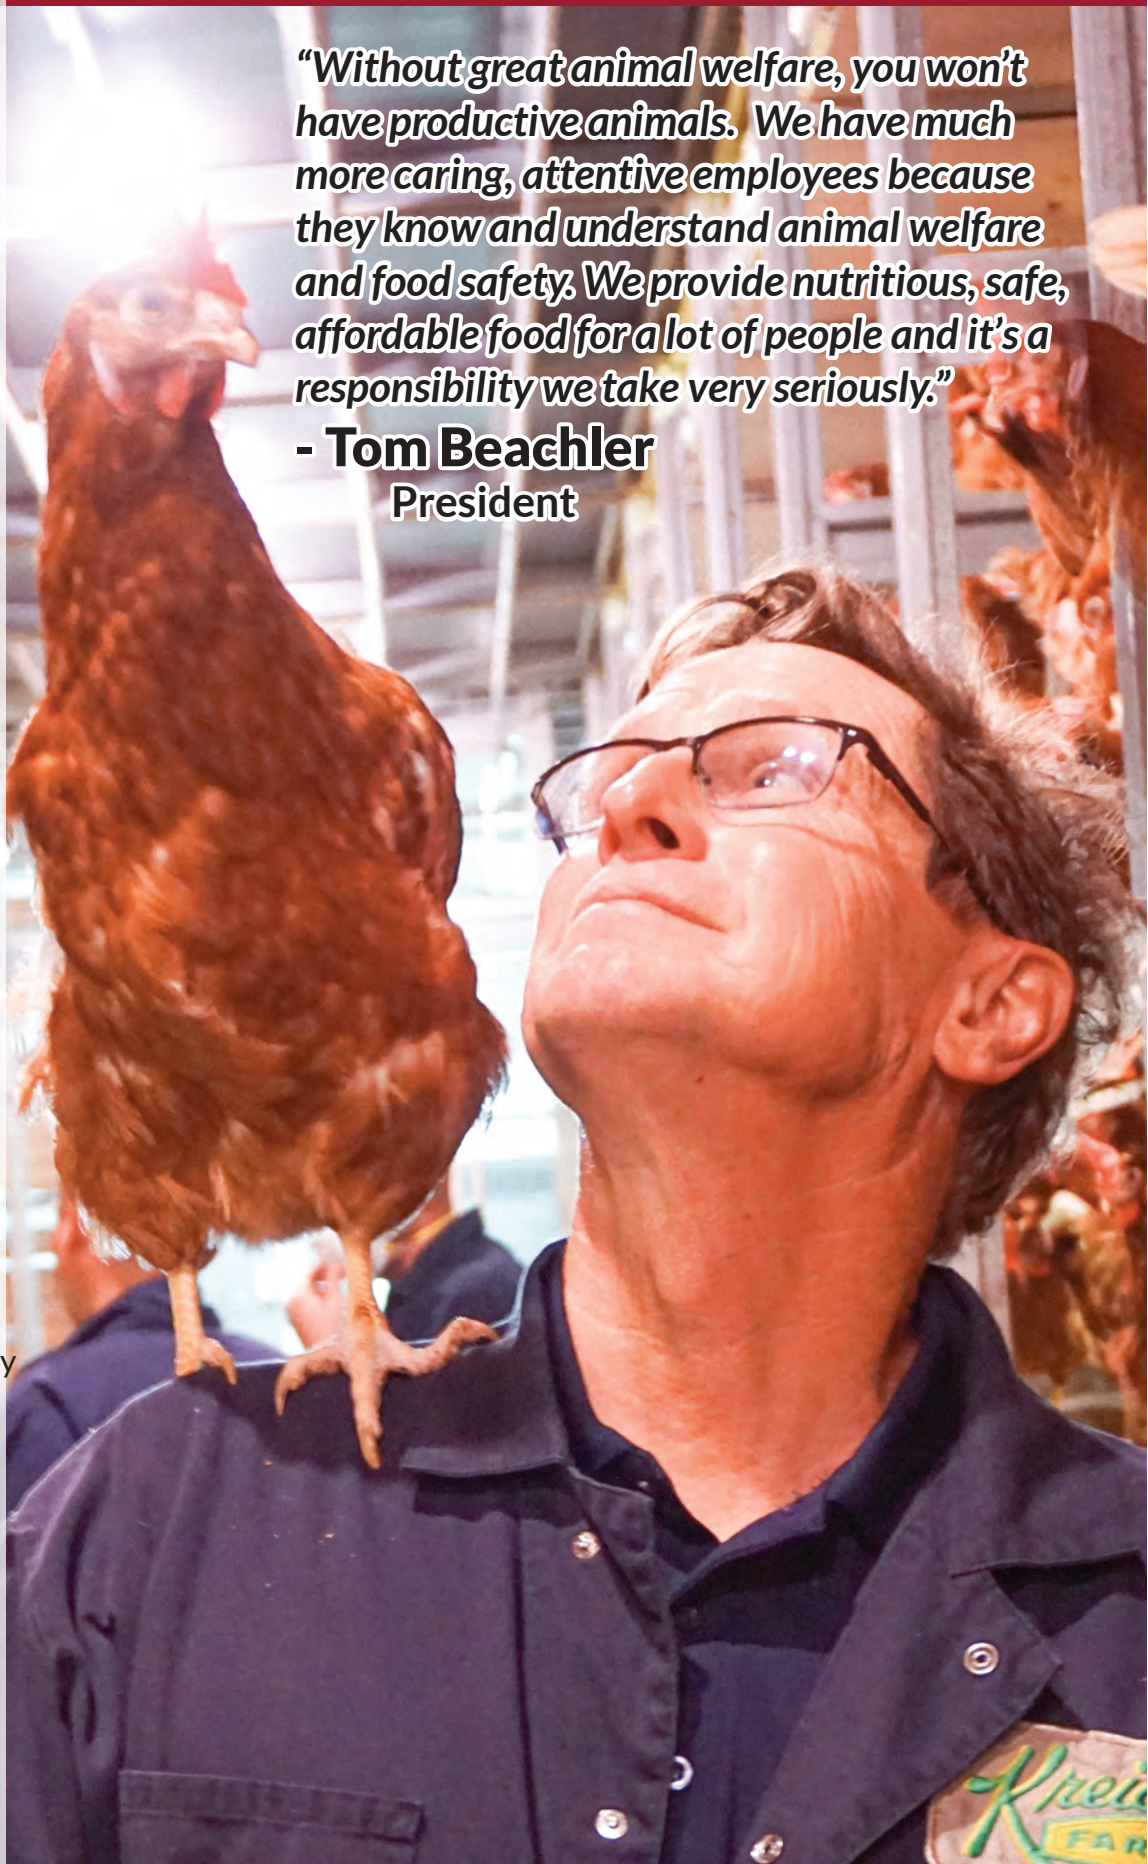

As consumers and retailers are increasingly concerned about how food is raised, producers are seeking independent verification for the marketplace.

The American Humane Certified™ program works closely with its independent Scientific Advisory Committee, agricultural professionals and producers to ensure that advances in farm animal welfare and best practices are part of American Humane Association's certification standards.

"Without great animal welfare, you won't have productive animals. We have much more caring, attentive employees because they know and understand animal welfare and food safety. We provide nutritious, safe, affordable food for a lot of people and it's a responsibility we take very seriously."

Feeding our hens a nutrient-packed diet not only benefits them, but it benefits you too as some of those extra nutrients are passed along into her eggs! Our cage-free birds are fed a special all-vegetarian diet with hemp seed meal which results in higher nutrients, including 33% more lutein, resulting in rich colored yolks, and more than triple the omega-3 than a standard egg.

At just 70 calories, our eggs are packed with 6g of protein to keep you full and contain an excellent source of vitamin B2, vitamin B5, vitamin B12, vitamin D, vitamin E, biotin, choline, and selenium. Our cage free birds are raised humanely which is why we are proud to be American Humane Certified™.
